Issue Number: 6

Greetings on this lovely sunny Friday morning. After the torrid rain earlier in the week, it is brilliant to see the sunshine as we move into the weekend. The focus in Sunnybrow this week has been on mental health, as we took part in World Mental Health day. It was great to see children and staff embrace either wearing yellow or something they loved to highlight the importance of talking about emotional wellbeing and mental health. In Sunnybrow, we place a huge value on promoting emotional wellbeing and mental health through our 5 ways to shine. In classes, as part of the 'do something you love' strategy, every class took part in a live lesson with an author, exploring how reading can help promote positive wellbeing.

We also welcomed our Governor Mrs Philips into school this week. Mrs Philips comes in twice a week to listen to children read, but she came in in her role as Governor on Thursday to do a learning walk looking at behaviour and attitudes. She was extremely complimentary about our lovely little school, commenting on the exemplary behaviour. In every class, she saw children who were engaged, motivated to learn and working incredibly hard. I say this to the children every week, but staff really are proud of how much progress our children (and school as a whole) is making!
