Another week has flown by and it has been jam-packed with ever-more reasons to be proud of our Sunnybrow children! On Tuesday, we welcomed teachers from Wellington Primary and Byers Green to share our children's work. It was great for teachers to get together and check that our assessments are accurate, but we were also so proud of our children's lovely work and the pride they take in their presentation. The other teachers were very complementary on the progress they could see in our children's work too!

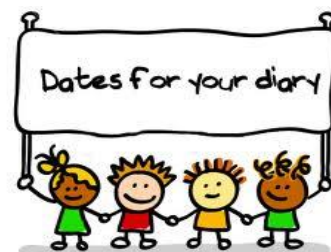

On Wednesday, it was time to head out on our annual trip to the Panto! This year, we went to see Cinderella at Consett Empire Theatre, and it was fantastic. It was very interactive and our children all thoroughly enjoyed getting involved. In fact, so did the staff, with Ms Kitching winning a medal for her dance moves! What filled us with pride however, was the excellent behaviour displayed by all of our children. They set a fabulous example and were great ambassadors for Sunnybrow.

Then, yesterday was our EYFS and Year 1 Nativity (with Eleanor and Charlotte helping out). At 12.15pm, amidst the chaos of getting ready, I did really have doubts if staff could pull it all off, but I should have known better. By 1.15pm, all children were calm and ready and they put on the most amazing little show.

Considering the age of the children, they were confident, knew exactly what they had to do and their singing was beautiful. We are so lucky to have staff in school who see the potential in every child and really do want to empower them all to exceed and this was just the perfect example!

Online Safety:

This week's online safety guide gives you top tips on how you can enjoy a tech-free Christmas...well, maybe tech-free will be a step too far, but I know I'm guilty of spending too much time on my phone, so ways to reduce screen-time would be a great place to start!

Safeguarding:
